Location: Alaska Center for Acupuncture, Palmer AK

Please join us for an interactive workshop where you will learn the foundation for developing your own financial “Road Map” by:

- Discovering what is important about money to you
- Identifying and prioritizing important financial goals
- Learning 10 key concepts about money that will inspire you to action.

There are more important things in life than money, so why do we need it and why do we stress over it?

Align your core values with your important financial decisions that will lead to better emotional, spiritual and physical health.

Please pre-register by calling Alaska Center for Acupuncture at 745-8688. Space is limited, so call early!

About the Presenter: Rene Russ is a financial advisor with Waddell & Reed. As a financial advisor, Rene’s mission is to help people get more out of their money, take the guesswork and fear out of investing and help manage financial risks so her clients can really focus on things in their life that are truly important to them. Rene believes that financial planning is a life-long, personal process that you can create and adapt based on your needs, values and your unique situation. It is through such a process that you can work toward achieving your most important aspirations.
